PHILOS AGAIN TAKE HONORS

SOCIETY FIRST IN DEBATE AND MUSIC LAST NIGHT.

BURDETTE YEO WINNER

Maryville Student Is First in Extemporaneous Speaking—Negative Wins In Child Labor Debate.

The Philomathean society continued on its winning way last night in the second group of the annual inter-society literary contests at the State Teachers College

The Philomatheans defeated the Eurekans in debate, took first in the music contest and finished second in extemporaneous speaking.

First place in extemporaneous speaking went to Burdette Yeo of this city, a Eurekan. Guy Canaday, the Philomathean representative, was second and Homer Needles, Excelsior, was third.

The general subject for the extemporaneous addresses was: "Proposed realignment of political parties in America." Yeo spoke on "A possible basis of realignment." Canaday's topic was "Prospects for an American Labor Party," and Needles spoke on "The effect of the lack of well defined issues upon public interest in politics."

The judges of debate and extemporaneous speaking were George Pat Wright, Fred Wolfers and Charles McCaffrey.

Music Especially Good.

The music contest was especially good. The winning selection of the Philomatheans was a vocal duet, "Home to Our Mountain" (Verdi), by Miss Faye Townsend and Vernon Barrett. The second place selection was a piano solo "Dance Dervishes" (Beethoven), by Miss Hettie Mae Woodward, a Eurekan. Third went to Miss Opal Mallory, Excelsior, who sang "An Indian Love Song" by Rudolf Friml.

The judges in the music contest were Mrs. C. Edwin Wells, Mrs. Don Martin and Mrs. Fred Wolfers.

The music was by far the most popular feature with the audience, which was not quite so large as on the first night. Clifford Evans of the Excelsior society, a freshman in the College, presided.

Keith Swisher and Clarence Bush were the winning debaters. They defeated Fred Street and Mervin McNulty who had the affirmative of the child labor question.

Contests Close Tonight.

The contests close tonight with a third debate, this time between the Philomatheans and Excelsiors on the question, "Resolved: That the system of student government in this College is justifiable."

This question has been agitating the college recently as the result of a demand by the freshmen for representation on the student council. Miss Callie Fisher and Miss Irene Pence will support the affirmative for the Philomatheans, and T. M. Walton and Arthur Reed will argue the negative for the Excelsiors.

Contests in oration and essay also will be held tonight, with David Nicholson, Philomathean, George Newman, Eurekan, and Mrs. Maud Martin, Excelsior, entered in the former and Miss Beulah June West, Excelsior, Miss Matilda McMillen, Eurekan, and Ernest Stalling, Philomathean, in the latter.

Two Pay Police Court Fines Yesterday P. M.

Two persons paid fines in police court yesterday afternoon. Francis Kinney was fined $10 and costs for inviting a woman with whom he was not acquainted to ride in his car, and J. R. Wallin paid a fine of $1 and costs for failing to stop on Fillmore street at Fourth.

Prather Infant to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for the infant son of the Rev. and Mrs. Guy L. Prather, born at St. Francis hospital last night, will be held at the Baptist parsonage at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. R. W. Richards will have charge of the services and burial will be in Miriam cemetery.

Mrs. D. T. Rankin of Tarkio and her sister, Mrs. Eugene Walker of St. Joseph, who is visiting at the Rankin home, were Maryville visitors yesterday.

Dies After Long Illness

Col. John C. Coolidge, aged father of the President, who died at his home in Plymouth, Vt., yesterday, while his son was speeding to his bedside.

WILL VOTE ON NEW BUILDING

$85,000 SCHOOL IS PROPOSED AT SKIDMORE.

ELECTION ON APRIL 1

Old Building Declared Inefficient And Unsafe By State High School Inspector.

A new school building to cost about $85,000 will be voted on at a special election of the voters of the Skidmore consolidated school district on April 1. The polling place for the election will be the legion hall in Skidmore.

Recently the state high school inspector reported the old building as being inefficient for the number of pupils in attendance and also that the building is not safe.

An additional school site of a few acres will have to be purchased in order to meet the state requirements. This cost is included in the $85,000 bond issue.

The judges for the special election will be Mrs. Vernon Ward, Mrs. John R. Masters and Ray Strickler.

According to the Skidmore News, the bonds will carry but 4¾ per cent interest and an increase of 22.4 cents in the present school levy, for each year during the life of the bonds, will be sufficient to meet both principal and interest requirements.

Kemp Coulter and Fred Coulter who have been at Omaha about ten days visiting relatives returned home yesterday.

DIES WHILE AT WINTER HOME

EDWIN BELLOWS SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY IN STUART, FLA.

PROMINENT PUBLISHER

Born in This County, He Early Entered Business in Chicago—Funeral to Be Held There.

Edwin Bellows, brother of C. D. Bellows of Maryville, died suddenly today at his winter home in Stuart, Fla., according to a message received about 1 o'clock this afternoon by W. N. Deatherage. The message stated that Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bellows and son, Charles, who have been spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bellows at Stuart, were leaving tomorrow with the body for Chicago and funeral arrangements would be made later.

Mr. Bellows had been under the care of a physician but his condition was not thought to be serious. He was president of the Bellows-Reeve Publishing Co., of Chicago and had many other interests.

Mr. Bellows was born in Nodaway County and had been located in Chicago for a number of years. He was about 57 years old. He is survived by his widow, three brothers and two sisters. They are: C. D. Bellows, Maryville; John Bellows, Chicago; Fay Bellows, Minneapolis; Mrs. Mary Johnston, Portland, Ore., and Mrs. J. A. Schack, Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bellows were preparing to leave Stuart for Maryville.

Maryville Team Defeats Quintet From Independence In 25-17 Game

The Maryville High School basketball team advanced into the semi-final round of the state high school basketball tournament at Columbia today by winning over William Crisman High School of Independence in the preliminary game, 25 to 17.

It was a fast basketball game. Independence led at the end of the first half, 12 to 5, but in the last quarter the Green and Black swung into a dazzling offense which resulted in score after score, and the victory. The entire second half, in fact, was all Maryville. At the end of the third quarter, the score was 16 to 15 in favor of Independence.

Locke, guard, was the scoring luminary for the Maryville team. He contributed 8 points to the victory. McKee was next with 6 points.

Leeka, Independence center, was high point man for his team with 8 points.

In the first game of the tournament, St. Joseph Central won from Washington, 39 to 19.

The score of the Maryville-Independence game:

MARYVILLE (25)—	G.	F.T.	F.

LAST CONCERT THIS SUNDAY

COLLEGE ORCHESTRA TO PLAY IN S. T. C. AUDITORIUM.

MISS DVORAK SOLOIST

Program Terminates Series Given By College And High School Bands and Orchestras.

The final concert of a series of four being given at the State Teachers College auditorium by the College and Maryville High School bands and orchestras will be given at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when the College orchestra, with Miss Helen Dvorak as soloist, will appear.

One of the features of the program will be the next to the last number, "In the Clock Store," by Orth. Following is the theme of this number:

The apprentice opens the store in the morning and winds up the clocks, the ticking of which is illustrated by the music, which gradually develops into a musical imitation of a clock store. The Cuckoo clock strikes the hour, followed by the striking of different clocks. The apprentice then whistles a little tune. The clock that contains the chimes gradually runs down and stops. The boy winds it up again, and then the miniature chimes of a Scotch Cathedral are heard in the distance. Now that all the clocks are in running order—the apprentice looks after his other work and we leave the clock store.

Reserved seats for the concert will be held until 3 o'clock. Then the doors will be open to the general public.

The program follows:

Overture, "Der Freischutz" ..... C. M. Von Weber

Suite, Ballet "Sylvia" ..... Leo Deliber

a. Valse Lente
b. Pizzicato Polka
c. March and Procession of Bacchus.

a. "Marche des Petits Soldats de Plomb" ..... Gabriel Pierne
b. Patrol, "The Crack Regiment" ..... Theo. Moses-Tobani

Intermission.

Concerto, "F Sharp Minor" (First Movement) ..... Vieuxtemps
Miss Helen Dvorak.

Descriptive Fantasis, "In the Clock Store" ..... Orth

Scenes from, "Rose Marie" ..... Friml

Alleged Thieves of Sheep Enter Army

Alden Owens and J. E. Smith Located at Fort Bliss, Tex.—Companions Face Grand Larceny Charge.

Alden Owens and J. E. Smith, wanted here on charges of stealing sheep, enlisted in the army at Fort Bliss, Tex., on March 15, according to information received by Sheriff Lowell Campbell today. Owens and Smith, with W. H. Steele and Ed Brody, who are now in the county jail here, were in a number of "deals" in this county, it is charged. These men are also charged with stealing the Virgil McClurg truck several months ago and taking a car of sheep from the C. C. Carr farm to St. Joseph.

Steele was convicted recently of petit larceny and was given one year in jail. He will be tried at the April term on a grand larceny charge, as will Ed Brody. Sheriff Campbell would like to get Owens and Smith here also.

This Paper Will Get Report on M. H. S. Game

The Maryville team will play the winner of the Westport-Fruitland game, now in progress, at 8 o'clock tonight in Columbia.

An effort is being made to secure returns on the game every 2 minutes at the Democrat-Forum and Tribune office through the Western Union. At any rate, there will be reports at the end of each quarter.

COURT FIGHT IS ON AGAIN

LEAGUE INVITATION FANS COALS OF OPPOSITION.

REED SPEAKS AGAIN

Resurrection of Fight Deplored by Many Senators Because Of Influence On Primaries.

Washington, March 19.—The spectacular fight over the world court, once thought ended when the Senate voted adherence, was revived today with all its old bitterness, verulence and some new.

The invitation from the Council of the League of Nations for an American commission to come to Geneva in September and discuss with the League the reservations which surround American entrance, has fanned the coals of opposition into a roaring flame again.

There is a division among Constitutional authorities as to whether the state department can send such a negotiating commission without the expressed authority of the Senate.

The pro-courters are inclined to consider the dispatch of such a commission as merely the means of accomplishing something the Senate has already agreed to, but the irreconcilables hold no such views. They pointed today to the rider tacked on to the treaty of peace with Germany which prohibits the executive branch of the government from sending delegates to any foreign conference without the consent of the Senate.

"Why," said Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, today with obvious sarcasm, "we are told that this is not a League court. We were told that it was a world court, comprised of free and independent nations, and that the League did not exercise any influence and authority over it. Now that we are in we find that we have to negotiate with the League about the court's affairs. This merely proves what we long contended, that by entering the court, we enter the League by the back door."

Meanwhile, the state department and the pro-court Senators decline to comment.

The resurrection of the League fight at this time is actually deplored, however, by a good many Senators, because of its political ramifications. Both the pro-courters and the irreconcilables have been taking their cases to the country since the Senate acted last month, and in a number of states the court has been made the outstanding issue in the forthcoming primaries.

This is primarily true in Illinois and Wisconsin where Senators McKinley and Lenroot are under fire because of their votes in favor of American adherence.

Compliment Program Given by S. T. C. Band

A number of complimentary telegrams were received at Station KSO Clarinda, last night concerning the two-hour program which was broadcast by the State Teachers College band under the direction of H. O. Hickernell, head of the wind instrument department of the conservatory of music.

D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, spoke at the intermission in the concert. He told of the outstanding characteristics of Nodaway County.

Among those who furnished cars to take the band to Clarinda were: Arthur Brewer, L. G. Somerville, D. E. Hotchkin, Dr. R. C. Person, Albert Kuchs, O. K. Bovard, C. W. Payne, J. F. Hull, E. C. Godby and D. A. Caldwell.

Tries to Beat Board Bill; Lands in Jail

Virgil Phillipie Appears in Judge Warren L. Johnson's Court For Fourth Time.

Virgil Phillipie was sent to the county jail for a term of three months from Judge Warren L. Johnson's court this morning. He pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to defraud Lena Monroe out of payment for board and lodging from January 17 to March 7.

This is at least the fourth time that Phillipie has been the defendant in a case before Judge Johnson. Three times before, civil suits have been brought against him for failure to pay house rent.

Trustees to Study Newspaper Properties

Kansas City Men, In Charge Of Kansas City Star, To Leave Tonight For Eastern Points.

Kansas City, March 19.—J. C. Nichols and Herbert V. Jones, two of the three trustees recently placed in charge of the Kansas City Star, following the death of Mrs. Irwin Kirkwood, last heir of William R. Nelson, will leave tonight for the East to make a study of newspaper values and property preparatory to forming plans for the sale of the Star, as provided in the Nelson will. They will go into conference tomorrow with John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants Industrial Co., and trustee of the Chicago Daily News. They will later visit New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore.

RECEIVE BIDS ON ROAD WORK

$25,000,000 PROGRAM FOR 1926 IS OPENED.

135 MILES OF ROADS

Thirty-Eight Projects In Twenty-One Counties Embraced In Bids Taken Today.

Jefferson City, March 19.—Bids for the construction of 135 miles of roads, estimated to cost $1,555,000, were received today by state highway department engineer B. H. Piepmeier, marking the opening of the 1926 25 million dollar road program.

The letting attracted contractors from a dozen western states, anxious to compete for the Missouri work.

Mr. Piepmeier said the present favorable weather would mean the early starting of road work in all sections of the state and when the contractors get into full swing, the Missouri program will be one of the largest in the nation. Illinois is the only nearby state which is even approaching the magnitude of the road work now being carried on by the Missouri highway commission.

Road conditions throughout the state up to this week have been bad because of heavy rains and snows, according to Mr. Piepmeier. He said that few contractors have started work and that no real progress has been made.

The bids received covered thirty-eight projects in twenty-one counties, providing for fourteen miles of eighteen foot concrete, 39.5 miles of nine-foot concrete, 31.6 miles of graded earth, 47.5 miles of gravel and 2.4 miles of chat. They also provide for bridge work in Livingston County and sixteen small bridges.

The propects are located in Gentry, Harrison, Livingston, Adair, Macon, Chariton, Mercer, Lewis, Johnson, Callaway, Cooper, Iron, Franklin, Bates, Barton, Polk, Greene, Christian, Texas, Douglas and Howell counties.

Eight Women Lawyers Are Admitted to Bar

Jefferson City, March 19.—Eight women were among the 156 student licensed to practice law in Missouri by the state board of law examiners today.

Choosing Directors of Homestead Assn.

An election for the purpose of electing three directors and to vote on an amendment was held today by the Maryville Homestead and Loan Association. The directors nominated were Dr. J. C. Allender, R. Kuchs and George Robb Ellison. The judges of the election were Mrs. Eldon Irvin and Miss Clara Sturm.

Arkoe Man Accused of Disturbing Peace

Olin Fannon, who lives near Arkoe, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Lowell Campbell and charged with disturbing the peace of Charles Barmann, also of the Arkoe vicinity.

Fannon's alleged offense took place about a week ago in the road in front of the Barmann home. He gave bond for $200 and was released.

ARRANGES HIS OWN FUNERAL

COL. COOLIDGE, HIMSELF, PLANS SERVICES.

SPECIAL TRAIN LOSES

Death Wins Race and President Arrives Too Late To See Father Alive —Burial Tomorrow Afternoon.

Plymouth, Vt., March 19.—President Coolidge returned home this morning to attend the funeral of his father, Col. John C. Coolidge, who died late last night.

As he stepped from the sleigh, a long streamer of purple ribbon surmounted by a green wreath bespoke the tragedy of the Coolidge home.

The President motored from Woodstock to Bridgewater and then because of the heavy snow, the party transferred to the horse-drawn sleigh. The President and his party came as far as Woodstock by special train, which was racing to Plymouth in the hopes of getting there before the elder Coolidge died.

Burial will be at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon instead of Sunday, as had been expected, it was announced shortly after the President arrived. Burial will be in the little hillside cemetery. The Rev. Dr. John White, Episcopal minister and Colonel Coolidge's pastor, will conduct the services.

The ceremony will be as simple as possible and only close relatives will attend.

The President arrived too late to see his father alive. While aboard his special train, he was advised of the elder Coolidge's death.

Upon his arrival, the President found virtually all funeral arrangements completed. In fact, it was the Colonel himself, anticipating death, who had engaged the undertaker, the minister, the grave digger, and had erected a stone in the family plot, lacking only the exact date of death. The neighbors, even, had received personal invitations from the lips of the dying man to be present at the home across the road for the final services.

Plymouth, Vt., March 19.—Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President, died at 10:41 o'clock last night.

A brief bulletin brought from the white farm house by Angus MacAulay, bodyguard to the colonel, said:

"Colonel Coolidge passed away very quietly at 10:41 o'clock."

The sick man was told yesterday that his son was on the way to see him. He nodded his head slightly and Dr. Cram said he believed he understood the message.

May Call Conference for Highway Safety

Governor Baker Calls Attention to Loss of 24,000 Lives Last Year—Personal Responsibilities Increased.

Jefferson City, March 19.—Governor Sam A. Baker today announced he was considering calling a state conference to consider the problems of safety on streets and highways.

The governor made the announcement in a letter to delegates who he appointed to attend the Hoover conference on street and highway safety March 23-25 in Washington.

The governor said that the loss of 24,000 lives in the United States last year was a matter of grave concern.

"I am not prepared to say just what it is that can be done," he said, "but I am mindful of the fact that the rapid development of the state road systems and the constantly increasing traffic places upon us an obligation to prevent accidents and to do everything in our power to minimize the danger."

Public Hearings to Be Held Beer Committee

Washington, March 19.—The wet bloc scored a technical victory today when the Senate judiciary "beer" committee voted to hold the public hearings upon all proposals to modify the national prohibition law.

Alfred Shackelford went to Tarkio this afternoon for a short business trip.

Weather

Unsettled and colder tonight, above freezing; Saturday fair with moderate temperature.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S SONGS.

Equality between the sexes should not extend to singers' programs. So declares Reinald Werrenrath, famous American baritone. He admits it is a matter of individual opinion on the part of the artists, although he himself feels strongly on the matter.

"I don't sing a woman's song; I won't even sing a song if the text is not such as would naturally come from a man's mouth. And I don't want to hear women, however, great they may be as interpreters, sing the Erlkonig' or any other song, traditional or otherwise, that suggests strongly the male spirit."

He sees no reason why men should sing lullabies—on the concert stage, at least; he probably does not dictate a father's choice at home. And he sees no reason why a woman should sing swashbuckling sea songs or drinking songs or the love songs of a masculine suitor to a fair maiden.

Mr. Werrenrath undoubtedly will find many persons to agree with him about this when they stop to think it over. Ordinarily, however, if the songs themselves be beautiful, if the singer has a pleasing voice and interprets with dramatic and artistic skill, the listeners are satisfied.

March is getting to be quite respectable.

On March 11, 1702, 224 years ago, The Courant, the first daily newspaper, was issued in London. It was located near the present site of the London Times office. It was largely the offspring of a forward looking imagination. It was a single page two column affair and professed to give only foreign news. The editor announced that he would not take it upon himself to "give any comments of my own, supposing other people to have sense enough to have reflection for themselves." The great American newspaper of this day with news and comment of every kind and character are the outgrowth of this modest little sheet started by a printer named E. Mallet.

Woman has indeed come into her own. She not only makes the small purchases for the support of the household, but she handles the family bank account also. Mrs. William Laimbeer, assistant cashier, in charge of the woman's department of the National City Bank of New York, the largest in the world, says that eighty-five per cent of the money that comes in and goes out of the banks today is handled by women. In the days of our fathers the wife asked for pin money and was happy with a dollar or two while husband carried the bank roll or blew it in on something. Now, mother gives hubby a car ticket, enough for his noonday lunch, and perhaps a little extra for a fresh plug of flat or a sack of smoking tobacco and he goes on his way rejoicing. She not only makes the purchases but she generally looks up the bargains and saves his money at the same time.

Comparison of Polls Shows Gain by Wets

Only One Group Of States Returns Dry Plurality, Accordng To Newspaper Vote.

Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.

Cleveland, O., March 19.—A comparison of the record-breaking national referendum on prohibition conducted by NEA Service and a similar poll taken by The Literary Digest in 1922 shows a large increase in the percentage of voters not in favor of the present prohibition law.

During this four-year period, the strength of the modificationists and the repealers has been increased considerably, if these comparative figures may be taken as a criterion.

In the national referendum of NEA Service 1,389,409 votes have been tabulated to date.

The Literary Digest poll brought in more than 900,000 votes on the same questions propounded in the NEA Service referendum.

A Comparison.

The results and percentages of the Digest's poll were:

Prohibition	356,193	(38.6%)
Repeal	189,856	(20.6%)
Modification	376,334	(40.8%)
TOTAL	922,383

In the present poll, which is still far from complete, the results and per centages are as follows:

Prohibition	257,973	(18%)
Repeal	447,322	(32%)
Modification	684,115	(50%)
TOTAL	1,389,409

The comparisons of states according to their geographical locations also brings out some interesting facts.

The Digest made the following groupings—New England states, Middle Atlantic states, East North Central states, West North Central states, East South Central states, West South Central states, South Atlantic states, Mountain states and Pacific states.

Four years ago the drys gained pluralities in four divisions—the East North Central, West North Central, East South Central and West South Central regions. The territory included in these four divisions may be said to constitute the backbone of the prohibition movement. It comprises the great middle west and most of the south.

One Dry Plurality.

Only one of these divisions has a dry plurality in the present poll—the East South Central division, in which are Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi. The others have left the drys far in the rear.

Yet the mistake must not be made of assuming that the modification votes represent a desire to do away with prohibition entirely. It may be said that the modification vote represents an element that would not bring back the old time saloon, with unrestricted selling of liquor, but that wants the present law changed so that certain features of the old regime can be returned without its many abuses.

The latest tabulation of the Missouri vote follows:

MISSOURI.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

Important for Children and Grown-Ups Alike

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Agricultural Agent Named by Burlington

Walter B. Remley Will Be In Charge Of Work On Lines East Of Missouri River—Has Assumed Duties.

J. B. Lamson, Agricultural Development Agent for the Burlington Railroad, who has charge of the agricultural work carried on by the Burlington, has announced the appointment of Walter B. Remley, as Agricultural Agent for the Burlington lines east of the Missouri river, with headquarters at 208 North Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., effective March 15.

Mr. Remley is exceptionally well qualified for this work, as he was brought up in Indiana on the farm of his father, who was one of the first students in agriculture at Purdue University; and he had early opportunities of observing results of practical methods of farming. He later successfully managed a farm of 240 acres for four years, following his graduation from the College of Agriculture of the University of Illinois. For the past three years, Mr. Remley has been a member of the agricultural department of the International Harvester Company and he is well and favorably known in this territory.

In regard to his new work as Agricultural Agent for the Burlington, Mr. Remley says that his duties will be similar to those of other agricultural extension workers, to stand ready to cooperate and give assistance on agricultural problems in every way possible, to all organizations and individuals in the territory, who are earnestly striving for better communities, better homes, and safe business to secure a prosperous future.

Protest Chains on Indian Reservations

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, March 19.—Chains are being worn again this season.

This fashion note comes from the Fort Peck (Mont.) Sioux Indian reservation.

It's on the authority of a couple of the tribesmen—Meade Steele and Rufus Ricker—who are here as the Indians' representatives, trying to protect their rights in Congress.

Steele brought one of the chains along, to show how the style looks.

It's no new style, however. Ever since Indians have lived on reservations it's prevailed.

Nor did the Indians introduce it. The whites did that, for the red's benefit.

For some reason or other, the Indians are unappreciative.

For an out-and-out dangerous criminal, Steele and Ricker admit, a good, strong log chain, firmly riveted on, perhaps with an iron ball attached, may be all right.

But they don't think it ought to be wished onto an Indian at an agency superintendent's whim, for breaking some rule that he wouldn't think, as a white man, of paying the least attention to.

To be sure, the sentences are passed by Indian judges of the reservation "courts of Indian offenses," but the superintendent appoints the judges and can remove them when he likes. There are 80 such courts in the country. The judges get $10 a month each.

An Auto-Thief Association.

(Burlington Junction Post).

Some years ago an auto-thief association was organized by citizens of Burlington Junction and vicinity. Memberships fees were paid and notes for $20 each were given by members to insure the payment of losses by its members. The organization has not been active of late, but now it is proposed to reorganize it, and a meeting will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the armory for that purpose. Those who are members and have given notes are urged to be present, as well as all others interested in becoming members.

$2,500 School Loan Ordered Foreclosed

Skidmore Property May Be Sold to Repay Amount Borrowed in 1902 —Interest Makes It $4,744.

A school loan made on August 18, 1902, has been ordered foreclosed by the Nodaway County Court. It was made to James M. French and E. R. Bender, with Samuel Bender and E. D. French as securities, and further secured by a mortgage on lot 3 and the west half of lot 2 ,block 3, in Skidmore's second addition to the town of Skidmore, together with all of lots 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 in block 2 of Skidmore's fourth addition.

The loan originally was $2,500, but accumulated interest at 6 per cent has amounted to $2,244.85, making a total of $4,744.85.

IN EDUCATION A SAFEGUARD

MISS LAURA HAWKINS SAYS NEGLECTED CHILD A MENACE.

PAYS IN MONEY, TOO

Mrs. T. H. Leet and Mrs. Leonard Bosch Other P. T. A. Speakers. —Election Next Month.

In order to safeguard its future and to guarantee its progress, a community should educate its youth in the principles of good citizenship, Miss Laura B. Hawkins, instructor in English at the Maryville High School, told members of the Parent-Teacher Association at the regular meeting held in the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon.

Miss Hawkins spoke on, "Why Should the Community be Interested in the Upbringing of the Child?" She emphasized that the future depends upon the present and pointed out that few children could be educated by efforts of the parents alone. Thus, without community interest, the child would become a menace, Miss Hawkins said:

"A selfish community is an undeveloped one," Miss Hawkins said, asserting that it from a financial standpoint alone would pay a community to educate its children.

Miss Hawkins spoke in place of the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, who was unable to be present.

Another speaker was Mrs. T. H. Leet, who answered the question: "To what degree am I, as a parent, responsible for the way in which I rear my children." Mrs. Leet declared her responsibility ended when she had taught the child Christianity, morality, good habits, how to care for itself and had given it the best education possible.

Mrs. Leonard Bosch spoke on the Vacation Bible School which is held each summer. Its purpose, Mrs. Bosch explained, is to teach the generally accepted principles of the Bible and in addition to give training in music, physical culture and perhaps other subjects. A special service program is carried out which teaches the children to think of others.

The Vacation Bible School trains children especially to be leaders, according to Mrs. Bosch, who concluded that it "meets the real need of our boys and girls."

Winifred Todd gave a piano number, "Falling Waters," and Mary Alice Jones a reading entitled, "The Humble Petition."

The program was followed by an interesting general discussion in which many took part.

The 6A grade gets the pennant offered each month for the best attendance of parents. The third room at the Garfield school will be presented with a picture for holding the pennant the longest time.

At the April meeting of the Parent Teacher Association, election of officers will be held. Mrs. Hugh Strong and Mrs. F. A. Bush were appointed as a nominating committee.

League Institute to Begin Here Tonight

Will Be Held at First M. E. Church—Outside Ministers to Preach at Sunday Services.

About thirty-five delegates from various Epworth Leagues in Nodaway County and vicinity are expected to attend the institute to be held at the First M. E. Church here, beginning tonight. The meetings will continue until Sunday night. Five lectures will be given.

At the regular church service Sunday morning, Dr. Ben F. Jones of Cameron will speak. Dr. W. C. Harper of Hopkins will speak at the Sunday night services. At the regular Epworth League services at 6:30 o'clock, a lecture will be given on the Bible.

Delegates to the institute will be cared for at the homes of members of the church. At the close of each night's service, there will be a recreational demonstration.

The Rev. E. E. Sparks of Oregon is dean of the St. Joseph district of Epworth League institutes. Dr. C. C. James will be acting dean of the one held here.

The institute here is in preparation for the state meeting to be held at Cameron in August.

Sunday will be observed as church building day at the First M. E. Sunday School.

A basket dinner and general get-together meeting of the members of the First M. E. Church was held last night. A short program was given and at a business meeting some of the problems of the church discussed.

Butler Starts Dry Fight at San Diego

This picture of General Smedley Butler (right) and Colonel Alexander Williams shaking hands is probably the only one that ever will be taken showing these two marine corps officers shaking hands. Shortly after Butler succeeded Williams as commandant of the San Diego marine base, the former reported Williams to superior officers for alleged intoxication and the serving of cocktails at a banquet he gave in Butler's honor.

FARM GLIMPSES

By BILLY TILSON.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McMillen and daughter, northeast of Hopkins, were Maryville visitors yesterday. J. O. says the farmers are ready for oats sowing.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ulmer, southeast of Hopkins, were trading among the merchants of Maryville yesterday. Mr. Ulmer says with so much work to do on the farm he doesn't find time to visit Maryville very often.

Bert Blackney, southwest of Hopkins, has a fine bunch of the spotted Poland China brood sows and they are beginning to farrow. Bert says he has great faith in the big spotted ones.

George Ulmer, Jr., Harry Dalby, H. A. Russell and J. E. Clymens of Hopkins community were transacting business in the city yesterday.

Jay Meeks and son, northeast of Burlington Junction were looking after business interests in the city yesterday. Mr. Meeks says he has his ground ready for oats sowing and if the weather continues will begin Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Delong were visiting in the city yesterday and calling on some of the merchants.

Mike Baker, south of town, planted his potatoes on St. Patrick's day. Mike says he doesn't know whether they will be Irish or Dutch potatoes when they mature.

Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, west of Bedison, were in the city yesterday. Mr. Anderson says he plowed his garden spot before coming to town.

H. B. Glines, northwest of Pickering, is finishing gathering corn this week. Mr. Glines leased his farm last year and moved to Hopkins. The renter moved off and left some of the crop in the field. The owner now says if you own a farm, stay on it; if you want to move to town, sell the farm. And he has come to the conclusion that farm life isn't so bad after all.

D. E. Florea, northwest of Pickering, has built a new barn on his farm this winter and has one that is large enough to house his stock and have room for his hay and grain.

Irvin Chambers, southwest of Hopkins, has a fine bunch of black cattle on the farm. Irvin generally feeds a couple of loads every winter but did not feed this winter as he believed feeding on grass would be more profitable. He is feeding a load of hogs that will soon be ready for the market. Irvin handles considerable stock through the year and is making a success out of his venture.

Carl Burk, northwest of Pickering, is busy these days looking after his brood sows which are farrowing and has around 70 young pigs. Carl raises the big spotted Poland China, and while Carl is looking after his fine sows Mrs. Burk is paying close attention to her fine flock of chickens and has some chickens that we noticed in passing were nearly large enough for the frying pan; at any rate they were large enough to remind us that fried chicken season would soon be here.

PICKERING.
O. G. NULL.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Leech and son of Rock Port, Mo., spent last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lock. Mr. Leech is superintendent of schools at Rock Port and had attended the basketball tournament at Maryville on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Copeland are moving this week from their home in Bloomdale neighborhood to their property in Pickering. They are leaving the farm to the management of their sons, Harrold and Harry, and their son-in-law, Jewelle Birkenholz.

Mrs. C. A. Wolfers and her daughter, Miss Mary, came over on Tuesday from Burlington Junction, where they spent the winter at the home of Mrs. T. A. Corken, another daughter of Mrs. Wolfers. They will make their home here for the spring and summer.

Mrs. Alice Lahr of Lorimer, Ia., arrived here on Wednesday from California, where she has been since last September, and will spend a few days here at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lee Morford, and at the home of her brother, C. R. Harman.

Two divisions of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian Church will have a market in one of the windows of the Hanna & Lincoln Shop on the Saturday before Easter.

The play "Deacon Dubbs," given by members of one division of the Ladies Aid Society on last Friday night and repeated on Tuesday night, was well attended considering the weather and roads. It was greatly enjoyed by those present. The admission receipts amounted to about $45.

A deal was consummated a few days ago in which Chas. Coleman disposed of his three-acre tract of land in Xenia neighborhood to Mike Callahan, who owns a large body of land adjoining. Mr. and Mrs. Callahan have purchased the ten-acre place belonging to the H. W. Smith estate in the same neighborhood and have moved to it.

Grading for Fifth Street Paving Begins

Grading of Fifth street, in preparation for paving with concrete, was begun today by the Cook-O'Brien Construction Co., low bidders at the recent letting by the City Council.

Two blocks of Fifth street are to be paved, after which there will be continuous concrete from Market street to the Wabash freight station.

The Cook-O'Brien company also holds the contract for paving of four projects on Walnut street.

If You Try It You Will Buy It

Many cars have been claiming performance. We only want a chance to prove it.

Take a ride in some car that sells for twice as much as the Overland Six Sedan before you try our car. Its record will stand on this comparison whether you want speed or acceleration or power on the hills.

And there's no obligation to buy . . . just try it.

A New Trial Granted to Rock Port Man

Convicted Of Larceny But Was Found Not Guilty On Burglary So Sentence Was Void.

Senator M. E. Ford, who presided as special judge at Rock Port in the absence of Judge John M. Dawson will grant tomorrow a new trial in the case of the State vs. Willard Graham, charged with burglary and larceny.

A jury in the circuit court at Rock Port last week was better to Willard Graham, charged with the burglary and larceny of Tommy Townsend's store at Tarkio, than it intended to be. The minimum for both burglary and larceny would have been four years. The jury, not wanting to give him that long a term, found him not guilty of burglary but guilty of grand larceny and assessed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary. As the value of the goods stolen was less than $30, the court held that if he did not commit the burglary, he could not have been guilty of larceny unless he had entered the building had been guilty of burglary. He will be granted a new trial. Senator Ford, who tried the case, and the attorneys at Rock Port cannot remember of anything just like this in the history of the criminal court of Atchison county. Senator Ford has been elected a special judge to hold this term of court in the absence of Judge Dawson, who is at home with his mother, who is ill.

Two Maryville Bus Lines Branch Out

Albert C. Mart, Maryville taxi operator, who has been running a bus line between Maryville and Bethany for several months, plans to operate a bus line from St. Joseph to Bethany, according to the Bethany Clipper.

C. R. Hastings, who operates a Maryville-St. Joseph bus line, also has extended his service to include a line between Bethany and St. Joseph. Eventually he expects to extend it to Des Moines, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Brown of Rock Port were in Maryville today.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcoxson of Hopkins were city visitors today.

T. A. Cummins Was Special Judge at Albany

(Albany Ledger).

Judge J. M. Dawson came over from Maryville last Sunday with the intention of holding the regular March term of the Gentry circuit court. On Monday morning, however, he was sick, and did not feel able to do the work of the week, and he adjourned the session until Monday, March 29. The jurors and alternates, a number of attorneys and witnesses in some cases were here, ready for the beginning of the term. Some routine business was transacted during the day.

Judge Dawson appointed T. A. Cummins of Maryville to act as special judge for Tuesday at which time the partition sales of land were held and were approved by him.

Judge Dawson has been at the bedside of his aged mother, who is sick at her home in Maryville.

Mrs. N. F. Humber left Tuesday evening for Miami, Fla., where she will visit at the home of her brother-in-law, Sam Humber, and Mrs. Humber.

CLEARMONT CHURCHES.

(From the Clearmont News)

Baptist Church Notes.

A fine Sunday school and about the usual attendance at the preaching service Sunday morning, a fair attendance at the evening hour, the spirit of every service was good, it was good to be there and worship in our Father's house.

The Aid meeting is with Mrs. J. H. Bailey each Wednesday until the quilt is finished. We must soon send the canned fruit to the Orphan's Home as danger of freezing will soon be past.

Two of our boys, Harvey and Lewis Hayes, have been out of Sunday school for three Sundays because of rheumatism, they are getting better and will soon be out again. Mrs. Cable is coming home this week as Mrs. Forcade seems to be no worse, but just as she has been for the last few weeks. Sunday school at the usual hour next Sunday. Workers conference at Forest City today.

W. W. LAUGHLIN, Pastor.

M. E. Church Notes.

Arrangements for the program that we have been working on for Easter time are coming on nicely. We will be ready to announce some of the details of the program next week. We want this to be a big rally for church services, Sunday school and Epworth League. Be a booster and help on a big thing in the church. It will make a better community if we can have a better church.

Preaching next Sunday at Clearmont both morning and night.

H. F. DORCAS, Pastor.

Christian Church Notes.

Sunday school and church services both morning and evening was well attended, and we are glad for the enthusiasm that was so evident. The following program has been arranged for the pre-Easter services. Sunday school and the regular communion and church services, Sunday morning, March 28th. Sunday evening, March 28, will mark the beginning of a series of sermons, one for each evening during the week and ending Sunday evening, April 4th. These services will be on the evangelistic order, and with co-operation of all the members we can accomplish a good work for Christ and His Kingdom.

The following committees were appointed:

Fellowship: All members of the church.

Easter program: Mrs. Edith Linebaugh, Mrs. Ira Newlon.

Choir singing: Mrs. Poleson, Mrs. C. Griffey, Earl Clark, Charles Smith.

Publicity: Mrs. A. Porterfield, Mrs. E. Clark, G. C. Clary, Howard Garrett.

Boys and girls division: Ira Newlon Mrs. Howard Garrett.

Arrangements are being made for special numbers for each service during the week. It is through work that we get inspiration so let us work and make this a meeting of inspiration.

Next Sunday morning we will have with us the Missouri Wesleyan College Men's Glee Club to give a musical program at the regular church hour. The club comprises eighteen well trained male voices. They will be under the leadership of Prof. Kelsey, who is at the head of the Musical Department of the College, and will be accompanied by a lady reader and pianist. These people will give you a splendid program that you will want to hear. A free will offering will be taken to help defray their traveling expenses.

We will have the other regular services at the regular hours.

There is to be a Mid-winter Institute to be held at Maryville next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The program will start at 6 o'clock Friday evening and classes in regular Institute work will be given under competent teachers. If a Leaguer attends all these lectures, will receive a certificate giving him full Institute credit on five subjects. The classes will be interspersed with social and recreational periods when a general good time will be had. This is an opportunity to attend a real Institute close at hand, and every Leaguer who can, should take advantage of it. The Maryville League will entertain all visiting Leaguers by furnishing bed and breakfast. Let's send a good delegation.

PICKERING M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Services Sunday, March 21, as follows:

Myrtle Tree—Sunday School at 10 a. m. Let everyone try and be present. A nice audience was out last Sunday.

Pickering—Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

The district meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will meet at Skidmore March 23-24.

Now as the weather gets better we hope to see a good increase in attendance at all these services.

REV. E. W. CROY, Pastor.

Christian Church.

(Pickering).

The usual services next Sunday. Bible school and sermon in the morning and evening service at 7:30. Subject: "Walking With God."

Let's increase the attendance next Sunday at all the services. Come to Bible School, and do not go home until noon.

The Near East offering from the Christian Church was $22.50. There is still time for you to help in this worthy work. Orphans in Turkey are still destitute and starving while we have plenty and to spare. The Near East Relief is their only hope. John Bosch is chairman of the Pickering committee; hand your offering to him. All churches and lodges ought to have a part in this worthy work. It is undenominational.

The Ladies Aid Society will have an all-day meeting at Mrs. Ocie Lincoln's next Tuesday to make quilts, three for the Orphan's Home and one for the County Infirmary.

The play "Deacon Dubbs" was repeated last Tuesday at the church. They all gave a good account of themselves.

Once more death has entered the ranks of the membership. Columbus Grimmit, who has been quite poorly all winter passed away Tuesday morning. Bro. T. J. Alsup conducted the funeral services in Maryville Thursday afternoon.

ELMO CHURCHES.

(From the Elmo Register).

The revival meetings which were conducted in the opera house by the pastor of the Christian Church, Rev. J. T. Alsup, of Maryville, and Orlo Lincoln, song leader of Pic[illegible], close last Sunday night.

The meeting was successful, not in large numbers of additions to the church, but the influence reaches far into the future and the memory of the good done will long live in the hearts of the people. Good sized audiences were in attendance, considering weather and road conditions.

Bro. Alsup and Bro. Lincoln were well liked and would be gladly received here, should they work together again in a like meeting.

M. E. SOUTH CHURCH NOTES.

Regular preaching services next Sunday. North Grove, 11 a. m., Elmo, 7:30 p. m.

Prayer meeting was dis-continued during meeting of Christian people, but will meet regularly now.

Dr. W. S. Scarborough will preach at Elmo, Tuesday 7:30 p. m., March 23. Business services of third quarterly conference will be held immediately after services.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH NOTES.

(Burlington Junction Post).

Well, that was a good Sunday School—for the day.

And there were four birthdays. The money you put into the Birthday Bank does real good in the dark and waste places of the earth. Make a thank offering to the Lord on your birthday.

We enjoyed the presence of a good number of Brother Thompson's congregation last Sunday evening while he was away helping in a conference at Tarkio.

Our Young Peoples Hour to have been held last Sunday morning was postponed until next Sunday morning. Be on time—at 9:45. It will be worth your while.

Easter is only a little more than two weeks away. Plan to attend all the special services beginning Palm Sunday, March 28, and continuing through the week closing on the evening of Easter Sunday.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

The Missouri Wesleyan Glee Club, with their singing and readings will be the program for next Sunday night. There will be twenty young people in the group and will put on a great program. Don't miss it. Come early, the house will be filled to its fullest capacity.

The Midwinter Epworth League Institute closed Sunday night in Tarkio, with the Sunday night public service. Burlington Junction was well represented in the Institute. There were six young people and the pastor attended. The pastor delivered five lectures on Stewardship, and three of the young people, Georgia Ellen Trusty, Katherine Fleming and Sherman Ware, received certificates for the work they did, while Burlington Junction was signally honored by Katherine Fleming, one of our choicest young people, who was asked to and sang a solo at the morning service. She greatly pleased the large crowd who heard her, and received heartiest congratulations from all the pastors present. She sang that hymn so familiar to us all, "I Need Thee Every Hour."

SINGER HERE FOR MEETING

KANSAS MAN TO ASSIST REV. R. E. MUSGRAVE.

WILL BEGIN SUNDAY

Services at Christian Church Will Continue Every Evening Up Until Easter—World-Wide Program.

The pre-Easter evangelistic campaign at the First Christian Church will begin Sunday and continue until Easter Sunday. Services will be held every night and will be in charge of the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the local church, and Ted Jones, singer, from Olathe, Kan.

Mr. Jones has been in the singing evangelistic work for a number of years and has been in charge of the music at special meetings throughout the Middle West.

At the Sunday morning service, beginning at 10:45 o'clock, Mr. Musgrave will have for his subject, "The Eleventh Commandment." In the evening, he will preach on, 'The Church and Its Founder."

These annual pre-Easter evangelistic campaigns have become an annual event among the Christian churches throughout the country. Practically every church in the brotherhood will hold some sort of revival services this year, closing Easter Sunday.

Last year, the goal was 100,000 additions. The number reached was 98,943.

The Christian churches of the country this year have set a goal of 100,000 additions.

Regular Services a Baptist Church Here

Rev. Guy L. Prather To Preach On, "A Worthy Standard" At Morning And, "Good Listener" At Night.

Baptists Will Have School of Missions

Will Begin Monday Evening, March 29, And Continues All That Week—Many Expected To Enroll.

Beginning Monday evening, March 29, and continuing every evening that week until Friday evening, a school of missions will be held at the Baptist Church. It is hoped to have at least one hundred persons enrolled in the school. Several classes will be held at the same time, beginning at 6 p. m. and closing promptly at 8:15 p. m. Several out-of-town teachers will be present and help in the work.

Among the workers expected to be here are Mrs. Lee Emmert of St. Joseph, Mrs. F. H. Boggess of Kansas City, Miss Reitha Hight of Kansas City, and the Rev. John W. Lowe of Liberty.

There will be a class for women, another for men, one for young men and women, one for boys and another for girls.

FROM DESPAIR TO HOPE

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for March 21, 1926.
Read John 18-20.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

This is the story of a group of men and women suddenly brought from the gloom of deepest despair to the heights of joy and hope.

If it were not so familiar to us, if for the first time we heard the story from lips which had our complete confidence, we would be talking of nothing else and would be enrolling ourselves as disciples of the one about whom the story centered.

It is the story of the death and the resurrection of Jesus as told by John when he was a very old man, one of the very few then living who personally knew of the things he told about and the only one who was on the inside and took a close part in the events he records.

After the last meeting the twelve ever had with Jesus as a group, when He had instituted the Lord's supper and had delivered to the eleven remaining His wonderful farewell address, Jesus and the group went out into the night, passed by the great gate over which in golden sculpture was outlined the figure of a great vine, across a well known brook and to a garden where there were aged olive trees growing. This was a favorite spot with them and Judas, who had left the party earlier in the evening knew where to find them.

Here Jesus was arrested, the disciples scattered. He was given mock trials, not a single legal feature about them and condemned. There were no habeus corpus proceedings possible, no bonds to be made. The machinery of his enemies directed by the High Priests never stopped grinding until He was haled to the cross where He died.

On the cross He smiled as He saw his best beloved disciple John standing with His mother and other loving women and consigned that mother to the care of His friend. He died, His body was taken down by the loving hands of Joseph of Arimathea, Nicodemus, the man of the house-top, the member of the Sanhedrin, brought spices and honored Him. He was buried in a new hewn sepulcher.

Thus had the world fallen about the ears of all his followers. Him in whom they had placed their trust, who was to be their great liberator, who had established them in a new faith had failed. He died as other men would die.

All was gloom and despair. Not a ray of light nor a sign of hope anywhere. It was the Sabbath following the death of Jesus. Ten of the disciples and many others were gathered in an upper room. They were talking in whispers. A woman at one side was quietly weeping.

Suddenly among them stood Jesus. They were startled, they were breathless. It could not be, had they not seen Him die on the cross and had they not witnessed His burial? Yet there He stood, an ineffable smile upon His face. There were the wounds in His hands and in His side.

Hope began to grow in their hearts. This is what He meant. He had conquered death and He answered for them all their questions. He resolved all their fears. Jesus was alive. He was with them here and now.

There were philosophers in ancient times who believed in a resurrection. In their imperfect way they attempted to preserve the body of the dead by embalming, by building great tombs. The Indians believed vaguely that death did not end all and placed with the dead his weapons and food for a journey and his favorite dog or horse. The Jews believed in a hereafter, but it was dark and vague, a spirit-embodied realm across a black river.

Not until Jesus came and lived among us and died did we understand. Death was the slayer of all our hopes. Jesus taught us the continuity of life. It may be that we can not find these words in the New Testament, but no man, studying what He said, how He lived and how He died, can fail to see that He meant all the time just this. There is no death, life is continuous, this day shalt thou be with me in parparadise.

It was the first conception humanity had of a continuing life after death, the first hope and vision men had of a greater, happier, better and more useful life for the real man. And Jesus brought it to us.

Until His death we were entirely unable to separate in our minds the body which we care for, which we abuse, which we love, from the spirit; the shell which we call man from the real man which inhabits the shell. John Adams when he was very old just a little while before that fourth of July on which he died was met one day by a friend. His friend asked how he was and Adams replied, "I'm all right, feeling fine, happier than ever, but this old house in which I have lived so long is about gone, the roof is leaking, the doors are hanging on broken hinges, soon I shall leave it forever."

Just what does all this mean to us, why should we in this modern day of miracles study something an old man named John wrote about the close of the first century?

It means this much to us. Had not Jesus lived and died, had not the little group of faithful followers whom He taught carried the story of their experiences and taught as He taught them to teach, had not Paul spread this Gospel into far off lands and into Europe, had not John written his story in His old age, we in this great United States of America would not be here today. This great nation which started an experiment in a government of religious freedom, this nation which was founded by men who first knelt on the wild shores and gave thanks to God, the nation based in its every line and history on Christianity would not be here today.

We ourselves would not now be living in peace, happiness and prosperity as we are. The churches which raise their spires toward the clouds in every hamlet and every clime in this great Republic would not be standing.

Not only did the appearance of Jesus in that upper room bring hope out of black despair to that little group there assembled, it brought hope and certainty of that hope to the hundreds of thousands and millions of us who have lived since that time and are living now. It made it possible for me to live and enjoy freedom of speech and print a newspaper and to sit in my home and write these lines to you.

Jesus also taught us that the death of the body in which we live does not amount to anything. This shell is no more than any other clay after the soul leaves it and soon does it return to dust. Death is no more than pulling aside the portierres and stepping into another room.

And the Jesus with whom John walked, still lives. He is here with us today just as He was with that little group in that upper room.

JESUS DIES AND RISES FROM THE DEAD.

Text of Lesson, John 19: 23-30; 20:19, 20.

Ch. 19:23 Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, They parted my raiment among them, for my vesture the did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw His mother, and the disciple standing by, whom He loved, He saith unto His mother, Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith He to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.

28 After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar; and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to His mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished: and He bowed His head, and gave up the ghost.

* * * *

CH. 20: 19 Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut when the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, He shewed unto them His hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

The Golden Text—"Therefore doth the Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I may take it again."—John 10: 17.

COME, BRING YOUR FAMILY AND YOUR FRIENDS!!

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Springfield where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Springfield and later is attacked by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assailants. The man escapes, but they identify him by his police picture as IKE JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness causes her to break their engagement. Mary writes Jimmy a letter, telling him about it. The office boy sticks it in his pocket and forgets it.

Jimmy gets a phone call late at night from Olga, saying she has found Ike Jensen. Her voice ends in a gasping cry and he rushes to her apartment to find her gone. He thinks she has been kidnaped or murdered—which he doesn't know. While he and police are in the apartment a mysterious phone call comes for him, threatening his life.

Despairingly, he asks, "My God, have they killed her?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV.

The newspapers were still in full hue and cry over the mysterious disappearance of Olga Maynard. Unlike most "stories" that are allowed to die out after a few days of sensational play, there was an element of the sinister, a touch of the mysterious, in this one that kept the city keyed up to a pitch of high excitement.

It struck at a time when local news was dead, and for that reason the city editors welcomed it.

And sensation followed sensation. O'Day had hinted vaguely to Jimmy of having something else up his sleeve to "give to the papers." And Jimmy was not kept long in ignorance.

When it did break, it swept him off his feet and sent him down to see O'Day with blood in his eye, raging and full of fight.

O'Day had told the reporters about the yellow stub and the handkerchief that had been found in the room with Henry Rand's body. Furthermore, he had told them that they had been traced to Olga Maynard and that, although her explanation had been satisfactory enough, still she had figured theretofore as an important cog in the chain of evidence that had lengthened since Henry Rand's murder.

He felt sure, he told them, that Olga Maynard's strange disappearance was somehow linked up with the murder.

And the whole city buzzed and gossiped over the strange mystery of the yellow stub. The murder of Henry Rand, although it had happened in a distant town, was suddenly brought home to Springfield. Street corner idlers hazarded strange guesses as to the motive that prompted Henry Rand's murder. Busy captains of industry summoned office boys to run out and grab the latest editions. Stenographers discussed it over their lunch, and housewives over the back fence. It supplied trolley car conversation for homegoing bookkeepers and mechanics.

"You shouldn't have done it," Jimmy stormed at O'Day. "It wasn't right. It wasn't fair to her. It's not fair to me to drag this out again."

O'Day tried to be patient.

"You don't understand, my boy. If you think this is going to turn the town against Olga Maynard, you are mistaken. They sympathize with her. Everyone does. They think she's the victim of some mysterious plot."

"Your ideas about the right thing to do certainly don't coincide with mine," said Jimmy bitterly.

"Be patient, Rand. I've got something in the back of my old noodle. When you're as old as I am you may realize that a man doesn't lose any of his brains when he passes forty.

"I want this thing to fill the papers. The wires are carrying it all over. I want Marie Real, if she's alive, to step out and supply some information that I think we can use.

"And another thing." His jaw set grimly as he walked to his desk and opened a drawer. "I'm going to show you something, Rand. You've been climbing all over my frame every time I opened my mouth and said something you didn't like about Olga Maynard. My boy, I'm not in this business for sentiment. I'm looking for facts. Do you see this picture?"

He held it out in front of Jimmy's eyes. "Look at it and tell me whether you recognize it."

Jimmy's forehead, as he studied the picture, puckered in a worried frown. Vague premonition held him again.

"I—I—my God, O'Day, it can't be—"

"It is, Lad, it is. It's a picture of your father, Henry Rand, taken when he was a boy of about fifteen. At least, that's the way I remember him."

"Where—where did you get this?" Jimmy asked feebly.

"I'll tell you where I got it. I found it the other night in Olga Maynard's apartment." He paused to watch the effect of his words.

Jimmy was shocked speechless. He managed to gulp, "In Olga Maynard's apartment? This?" Feebly, he pointed at it with his finger.

The thought of the picture they had found in Olga's room rose to torture him.

"That's what I said. I was browsin' through the place an' I found this on the mantel piece. I didn't recognize it at first, but something was familiar about it an' I stood there an' studied it an' suddenly it came to me like a flash. 'It's Henry Rand,' I says—"

"But I don't understand—"

"No, nor do I. But here it is. What do you make of it?" He lifted his head from a study of the picture. "You recognize your dad?"

"I do now. Perhaps without you I wouldn't, but there are his features. Forty years makes a lot of changes, but—"

"It's him without a doubt. It seems just like yesterday that I saw him, after seein' this."

"But what in the world do you make of it?"

And O'Day said slowly, "Just this," and he seemed to measure each word as he uttered it. "That girl, Jim, has been holdin' back something from us. She knew a lot more about this business than she cared to let on. She was in on it, an' you can't make me believe any different."

"You think she had anything to do with the murder?" Jimmy asked in weary discouragement. He seemed to have shrunk; a despairing look came into his eyes.

"I'm not sayin' she did. But she's in on it, Rand. There was evidently a plot to get your father, an' she knew about it. She knows who did it, an' she knows why it was done.

"Now you've just given me the devil for shootin' off my mouth to the newspapers. All right, but I'm holdin' this back. I'm givin' her an even break, ain't I?"

"I suppose you are, but my God, Lieutenant, I can't conceive of that girl having a hand in this awful thing. It's beyond me. If it's true I'll never have a bit of faith left in human nature."

"What do you think now of my theory—the theory I explained the other night, about that kidnapin' stunt bein' nothin' but a frame-up? Do you still think I'm crazy?"

And Jimmy, utterly weary, and feeling friendless and alone in a mad world, answered, "No."

* * *

He had learned from O'Day that the effort to check back on the phone call to Olga's apartment had led them to a booth in a busy drug store.

"Just as I had expected," commented O'Day when he told Jimmy about it.

Jimmy thought several times of calling up Mary Lowell and explaining the whole mad business to her. But a certain stiff-backed attitude about making what might be construed as advances restrained him.

Besides, he told himself, he had put all such ideas out of his head. He was here for a purpose. . . . .

But he wondered if Mary would give him her sympathy. He felt very much in need of sympathy. It seemed that no one understood him.

His time could hardly be called his own. Reporters were in almost constant attendance and Mrs. King, his landlady, had told them that her roomer, Mr. Rand, "and a gentleman if ever there was one," had been shot at one night. "Right in his room, mind you."

This made him something of a hero. He was conscious of stares as he walked through the streets and he overheard people point him out as he passed. . . . . He even began to get mash notes, on scented paper of varied hues.

But O'Day apparently had been right about one thing. There was no further attempt to molest him, and there were no more mysterious telephone calls or warning letters.

"I told you so," O'Day said. "The publicity's driven them to cover."

Barry Colvin arrived the next day, resolved, he told Jimmy to stick the thing out with him.

"And what's this about Olga Maynard being kidnaped?" he asked. "The papers back home have been full of it. My boy, you're famous. Your mug has been splashed all over the papers, and your face is better known than Rudy Valentino's."

He grinned. "If I had all that publicity I'd certainly make the law business pay and pay heavy."

He told Jimmy, "Mooney's in New York. He's found out this much, at least—that Marie Real's stage name was Marie Rellane. Of course, everybody's heard of Marie Rellane. I'd no idea the lady was such a star."

"Lord! She was the toast of the country when I was a little kid," said Jimmy.

"But Mooney says she's dropped out of sight, at least temporarily. He's hopeful, though, of locating her soon."

"God, Barry, if this thing isn't cleared up soon I'll go mad."

"Buck up, Jim. I'm going to be with you. Maybe I can help. Tell me, what do you think they've done to Olga Maynard?"

"Oh, I don't know. O'Day's got a crazy idea—"

He told Barry about the finding of Henry Rand's picture and what O'Day thought of it.

"You were a fool, Jim, for trusting that woman."

He turned savagely on Barry, but the words that were in his mind never escaped his lips. Instead he bowed his head. "Maybe I am. It would have been better, for her at least, had they kept her in jail. She'd have been safe, if not comfortable."

They sat up and talked, of Grafton and Janet and Jimmy's mother, until Barry yawned sleepily and went to bed.

But there was no sleep for Jimmy. He sat and gazed enviously at Barry's comfortable, resting figure, heard with irritation his slight snore. . . . .

And the thought of the picture they had found in Olga's room rose to torture him through half the night.

WHEN YOU PULL FOR MISSOURI
YOU ARE PULLING FOR YOURSELF

Because what you do for your state comes back to you tenfold in increased prosperity—in actual dollars and cents. The Missouri Association "For a Greater Missouri" is a unified effort to sell Missouri to Missourians and then to the world. To federate all constructive bodies into one powerful machine for state progress. It is absolutely unbiased in its work. It serves no special interests, and employs no expensive organizers to use up working funds. Your money goes directly into the work of spreading the gospel of Missouri throughout the state and nation. Send for our literature and let us enroll you as a Missouri builder. Be a link in the chain of state progress.

THE PRESS IS THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The program carried out by The Missouri Association during 1925, and its outline of work for 1926, were unanimously indorsed by the five regional groups of Missouri editors, and by the State Press Association, at their annual meetings in 1925. This indorsement is our credentials for asking your support in memberships that we may carry on the work we have begun.

MADE IN MISSOURI

The Missouri Association "For a Greater Missouri" has pledged itself to increase the home consumption of Missouri products, through truthful advertising and publicity about what we have to offer the home consumer and the markets of the nation. A campaign begun in January, 1925, has begun to show definite results. Half a million of the Missouri slogan-stickers, carrying its appeal to the consumer to favor Missouri products of field, factory and mine, are in use by Chambers of Commerce, business concerns and individuals. A larger consumption of home products will mean larger areas of production, more people engaged in agriculture and all of its resulting industries, a larger surplus for the world markets and increased economic wealth. Missouri Producer, tell folks about the excellence of your product through the home newspaper!

Satisfied

F. W. Zimmerman is 90 and lives in Santa Ana, Calif. He knew President Lincoln, and couldn't be satisfied until he'd met President Coolidge, too. So he ran away from home, shipped as a sailor on a steamer bound for the east coast, got to Washington and shook the president's hand, and then went back home again.

NORTHEAST NODAWAY.

Bert Dowis had a large crowd at his sale Saturday. Things sold fairly well.

Raymond Duncan of Denver, Colo., is visiting friends here. Mr. Duncan formerly lived 1½ miles northwest of Sheridan. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Duncan, came back with him. Raymond will return to Denver soon but his parents will remain for awhile.

Jim Lewis and Harley Bebout of Hopkins, attended the ball game in Sheridan Tuesday evening.

Sheridan basketball boys and girls played Maloy, Ia., Tuesday evening. The Sheridan boys were beaten by a score of 13 to 15, while Sheridan girls won with a score of 10 to 8. This is the last game of the season and rather sad, for seniors of Sheridan High as they will never again play as the High School team. Miss Erickson is coach of the girls' team and Leta Dowis is captain. Prof. Hunt is coach of the Boys' team and Luther Cook is captain.

Miss Eula Dowis is home this week on sick leave. She is attending Business college at Chillicothe. She will return to her school work next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Brown were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Julius Echterling, of near Parnell Sunday.

RESOLUTION NUMBER A 33.

A RESOLUTION FOR GRADING, PAVING, CURBING AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING DAVIS STREET FROM NORTH LINE OF COOPER STREET TO 18 FEET NORTH OF THE SOUTH LINE OF FIRST STREET.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, AS FOLLOWS, TO-WIT:

SECTION 1.

That it is hereby declared necessary to bring to the established grade, pave, curb and otherwise improve the roadway of the following streets in the City of Maryville, Missouri.

Davis Street from North line of Cooper Street to 18 feet North of the South line of First Street, including the street and Alley returns to a distance of three feet from face of curb at intersections.

With a width of roadway of twenty feet from face of curb to face of curb and 25 feet and 5 inches at the intersecting streets and 12 feet on all intersecting alleys.

Legal Notices.

SECTION 2.

That said grading shall consist of bringing the roadway of said street to the established grade as provided for by Ordinance Number 1091 of the City of Maryville, Missouri, by cuts and fills and by excavating sufficient to provide for the aforesaid paving, as shown by a profile of said street now on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Said paving shall consist of seven inch Reinforced Concrete Paving, laid on a well rolled sub-base.

The curb shall consist of integral curb, constructed of concrete. The curb shall be five inches wide at the top and six inches at the bottom and an average depth of thirteen inches. All the aforsaid improvements shall be constructed in strict accordance with the plans and profiles now on file in the office of the City Clerk under date of March 8th, 1926, and the specifications for concrete paving and curbing twenty feet wide now on file with the City Clerk, filed under date of January 29th, 1926.

SECTION 3.

That the cost of said work to-wit: Grading, paving, curbing and otherwise improving, including the cost of bringing said street to the established grade, shall be levied as a special assessment upon all lots and tracts of land upon either side of said street improvements, abutting thereon as provided by law and special tax bills bearing interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum after thirty days shall be issued to the contractor for payment of said work.

SECTION 4.

This Resolution shall be published for seven consecutive insertions in the Daily Democrat-Forum and Maryville Tribune, a daily newspaper published in said City.

Passed and approved this 15th day of March, 1926.

W. O. GARRETT, Mayor.
Attest: MERLE C. SMITH, City Clerk.

Legal Notices.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

Whereas, Stephen J. Donahue and Altha F. Donahue, husband and wife, by their deed of trust, dated February 28, 1924, and recorded March 28, 1924, in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Nodaway County, Missouri, in Book 152 at page 174 of the trust deed records of said County, conveyed to the undersigned, in trust, to secure the payment of the notes in said deed of trust particularly described the real estate in Nodaway County, Missouri, described, as follows, to-wit:

Lots Six (6) and Seven (7), in Block Forty-five (45) of E. S. Stephenson's Addition to Maryville, and

Whereas, a part of the notes described in and secured by said deed of trust are past due and remain unpaid and by the terms of said deed of trust the whole of said notes is therefore due, and

Whereas, the owner and legal holder of said notes has requested me to execute the power vested in me by said deed of trust to sell said real estate and out of the proceeds of said sale to pay the indebtedness secured thereby,

Now, Therefore, notice is hereby given that pursuant to the power vested in me by said deed of trust and pursuant to the request of the legal holder of said notes, I will, on Saturday, the 10th day of April, 1926, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the west front door of the court house in the city of Maryville, County of Nodaway and State of Missouri, sell the above deseribed real estate, at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, for the purpose of satisfying said debt and the expenses of executing this trust.

S. H. KEMP, Trustee.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 19. — Grain prices closed sharply lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat reversed its tone and closed markedly under yesterday's closing levels. The decline ranged from 4½ to 6 5-8 cents.

There were numerous rallies but the insistent selling caused these to be short lived. Local traders are standing back in lieu of the reported excellent weather throughout the winter wheat belt. Cash wheat attracted little attention in the local pit.

Corn closed lower in all deliveries. The recessions were not so much due to the reaction in wheat as to the heavy liquidation in corn itself. New lows for the season were established in the May and September deliveries.

Oats closed lower.

Provisions closed lower.

FOUR FLOCKS ARE ELIGIBLE

NODAWAY COUNTIANS APPLY FOR CERTIFICATION.

KEEP RECORD OF EGGS

Hens Must Average Twenty-Five From November 1st to March 1st To Qualify.

Four Nodaway County poultry raisers have completed demonstrations carried on to secure certification for their flocks. They are: Mrs. R. W. Cable, Clearmont; Mrs. Arta Craven, Maryville; O. W. Keever, Parnell; and Mrs. Viola Barber, Skidmore.

It was necessary for these persons to keep a record of eggs laid by their hens. A flock must average twenty-five eggs to the hen from November 1 to March 1 to be eligible.

Mrs. Cable turned in an average of 33.98 from 102 hens, Mrs. Craven averaged 27.3 from 108 hens, Mrs. Barber had an average of 62.1 from 115 hens, and Mr. Keever averaged 23 from 463 hens. His average was only for three months, and he is certain to reach the required number on his fourth report.

Next fall, H. L. Shrader of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, will come to Nodaway County and examine each of these four flocks. The birds worthy of certification will be banded, and their eggs may be sold as certified product.

There are now two persons in the county who have certified flocks. They are J. W. Stevenson, Graham, and A. E. Straub, Maryville. They have held the rating for some time.

Mrs. Cable has Plymouth Rock chickens, Mrs. Craven raises Buff Orpingtons, and Mr. Keever and Mrs. Barber have Single Comb White Leghorns.

Emporia Springs Upset in Beating Pittsburg

Hillyards, K. C. A. C., And Goodyear Also Win in National Tourney Games Last Night.

The Emporia Teachers sprung a big surprise in the National A. A. U. Basketball Tourney last night by defeating the Pittsburg Teachers, tourney favorites, in a 33 to 27 game. The Emporia team led the quintet which had previously defeated Washburn College, national champions all the way.

The St. Joseph Hillyards defeated the South Side Turners, 38 to 18; The K. C. A. C. pursued its winning streak and won from Werner-Werner, 44 to 28; and the Goodyear team of Akron, O., defeated Schoolcys, 40 to 19.

Tonight in the semi-finals Emporia plays the Hillyards and the K. C. A. C. meets the Goodyear team.

Hardy and Rugged, Father of the President Typified Section Where He Spent Whole Life

By International News Service.

No man better typified the rugged, homely manhood of the Green Mountains of Vermont than Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the President. He was the hardy product of 300 years' struggle with the New England climate and soil; he lived his whole life under the towering prominence of Messer Knob in the little hamlet of Plymouth, hemmed in by a great mountain range, and even when dying he refused to leave it for the proffered comforts of the White House in Washington.

Where he had spent his entire existence, he told his distinguished son, he would die, and he did.

Although overshadowed by his son, Col. Coolidge, too, had seen public service. Cincinnatus-like, he had, in his earlier days been called from the plough from time to time to serve his State, while in the town life of Plymouth he was an outstanding figure all his life.

Served His State.

At the time the President was serving as Mayor of Northampton, Mass., his father was sitting in the State Senate of Vermont. Earlier, he had seen service in the Vermont House of Representatives. At Plymouth, he had variously served as constable, collector of taxes, superintendent of schools and selectman.

The greatest ambition of Col. Coolidge's life was realized on that fateful day in August, 1923, when his son was suddenly elevated to the Nation's highest office through the unexpected death of President Harding. And it came as his special privilege that he personally was permitted to administer the oath of office to the boy he had brought to maturity.

Gave Oath to Son.

Coatless and collarless, he had assembled his little family group in the simple living room of the ancestral home, and, under the flickering light of a single oil lamp, swore in his son as President of the United States.

Col. Coolidge was born at Plymouth March 31, 1845. As a boy, he aided his father in farming—at that time New England agriculture had yet to feel the effects of western competition. Later, the family confined themselves largely to the making of maple sugar and the production of milk for the making of butter and cheese.

An elementary education was received in the township public school, followed by four years at Black River Academy in Ludlow, twelve miles distant.

In 1868, he married Victoria Josephine Moore and set up the general store at the Plymouth crossroads, which still stands and prospers.

Four years later, the President was born, and in 1875, a daughter, named Abbie Grace.

Enters Politics.

In 1872, Col. Coolidge made his first bid for political recognition and was elected to the State House of Representatives, where he served continuously for six years.

Meanwhile, the mercantile business lost its appeal to the president's father and the same year he retired from the Legislature he sold out to his partner, F. C. Moore, and turned his attention to small-scale farming and a more active participation in township affairs.

Mrs. Coolidge, never a strong woman, died in 1885, and in 1890, their daughter, Abbie, also died.

One year after Abbie's death, Col. Coolidge re-married, taking as a bride another Plymouth girl, Carrie A. Brown, who died in 1920, the same year her step-son received the Vice-Presidential nomination.

Gets Title of "Colonel"

It was during the gubernatorial term of William W. Stickney that the President's father received the title of "Colonel." The two were old friends, and the Governor appointed him to his staff.

In 1910, the Colonel returned to public life, serving one term in the State Senate, his last State office. Thereafter, up to the time of his death, he remained close to his home, writing life insurance and serving as Vice-President of the Ludlow Savings Bank and Trust Company.

Endowed with almost superhuman physique that is characteristic of the Green Mountains, Col. Coolidge, despite his advanced years, performed all of his own work clear up to the summer of 1925.

With the elevation of Calvin Coolidge to the Presidency, however, Plymouth and the Coolidge home there became a show place and stopping point on all tourist routes.

Plymouth Is Mecca

Added to his usual tasks, the Colonel found himself beseiged daily by hundreds of visitors desirous of shaking his hand and engaging him in conversation.

This daily strain, coupled with his age, finally told on the President's father, and early in July of 1925, he succumbed to a kidney ailment that necessitated an immediate operation. His life was despaired of, and the President, summering at Swampscott, Mass., rushed by special train and automobile to the bedside.

Once more, the unyielding determination of the Coolidges asserted itself, however, and he rallied, refusing even to admit he was ill. The strain, though was too much and he never completely recovered. A "block heart" and poor blood circulation which created a condition of partial paralysis, added to the original trouble, brought about relapse after relapse until he finally died.

Yehle Store Presents Spring Fashion Show

Successful Production Is Staged Entirely by Employes, With Garments From Store's Stocks.

The Yehle Dry Goods Company presented a Spring Fashion Show at the store yesterday. There were two performances, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. The entire production was staged by the company and its employes and the garments displayed were taken from the regular stocks.

The latest in gowns, hats, coats and accessories were displayed by store employes. Miss Pauline Mahr, head of the ready-to-wear department at Yehle's, and Ralph Yehle staged the display, designed the settings, selected the costumes and trained the models. Chester Lyle directed the lighting.

C. J. Alderman and Miss Kate Yehle received the patrons who attended the performances.

The employes of the store who acted as models in the displays were Mrs. Frances Spoor, Mrs. Pauline Masters, Mrs. Margaret Thompson, Misses Jettie Robertson, Neri Robertson, Esther Hull, Maurine Allison, Ethel Muntz, Charity Wiseman, and Kate Willis.

Children who modeled in the display were Reba Butler, Mildred Fryer, Virginia Miller, Eunice Eversole and Mary Ann Bovard.

Special numbers during the performance included "Easter Costume" by Mary Ann Bovard, in which she wore "mother's new spring dress," Miss Mary Josephine Dreyer gave a solo dance. It was artistically done.

Mrs. Ralph Eversole sang "Through the Night," and "Always." She was accompanied by Mr. Eversole. "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen," was a violin solo played by Ralph Yehle. Mrs. Eversole accompanied this solo. The Yehle Orchestra, under the direction of Ralph Yehle, furnished the music for the displays and before and after the program.

Mrs. Mabel Gillette and Miss Rose Flanagan "made up" the models. Miss Ina Hollowell and Robert Mountjoy were ushers. Miss Louise Kroetch assisted Miss Mahr behind the scenes. Every employe of the company had some part in staging the show, it was pointed out today.

The store was decorated in cherry blossoms and other spring effects. The show was given on the second floor. A long walk, raised and leading from a lighted archway, served for the models to display the costumes.

K. C. Star Comments on Maryville Coaches

The following appeared in last night's Kansas City Star:

Among the distinguished visitors are H. L. "Shorty" Lawrence and Pete Jones, in charge of the Maryville Teachers. "Shorty's" team won the Missouri intercollegiate championship this season. The new gymnasium at Maryville has been a big item in putting basket ball on the map, there, and the game seems destined to become almost as popular as football. Pete Jones is a former Kansas lineman and an All-Valley tackle.
